PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Pat Miceli

"The story of women's struggle for equality belongs to no single feminist, nor to any one organization but to the collective efforts of all who care about human rights"

- Gloria Steinem

This year International Women's Day ("IWD") is celebrated on March 7. The theme is "GIVE TO GAIN" when we give, we gain. AAUW Buffalo Branch has planned a program on March 19 at 6:30pm at the Honorable Shirley Chisholm (Audubon) Branch Library focusing on the experiences of some of our members. Everyone has an important story to tell; come and gain from their experiences.

By way of background, IWD was first observed nationally in 1909 and internationally in 1911. Initially IWD grew from the calls for better wages, shorter hours, and voting rights. Today IWD is observed globally with rallies, digital campaigns, and community events, serving as a reminder of the importance to combat ongoing gender inequality. Remember the day, remember the cause, share your story, learn from another's story.

The following candidates for Board Positions for 2026-2028 are:

Secretary/Parliamentarian — Kathy Tepas

CFO — Shirley Joy

Fundraising Treasurer — Nan Scinta

Scholarship Director — Mary Bashore

Voting will be online in the Spring. More information will be forthcoming. The Board extends thanks to all candidates who are willing to fill these positions.

In conclusion, but of great importance, is the Book Sale. Sorting is taking place at 37 Anderson Road, Cheektowaga on Tuesday and Wednesday 9-1pm and the first Saturday of the month 10am - noon. The Book Sale Committee does an outstanding job and can use your help with sorting and donating. As always, more detailed information about our activities is available on the website:

aauwbuffalo.org

Thank you for your continued support of AAUW Buffalo Branch.

ADVOCATE

The Midterm Elections

In April 2025, reporting on the progress of the goals of Project 2025, the Brennan Center for Justice said, “Our elections will continue to rely on officials, voter registration organizations, and voters themselves to manage, bolster, and participate in elections in the face of threats. States — which actually run our elections — and civil society must step up to support them.”

On February 2, 2026, Jacob Wendler reported in Politico that “President Donald Trump said that Republicans should nationalize elections, continuing to double down on false conspiracy theories about widespread voter fraud in the 2020 presidential election.” The Guardian reported that Trump suggested Republicans should ‘take over’ elections to protect the party. Common Cause says, “Whether it’s the term ‘nationalizing’ or ‘federalizing,’ it’s the same thing. We’ve said it once before, but we’ll say it again. “Presidents don’t set election laws. They never have and never will.” At the same time, there are at least five Congressional Republicans who would likely disagree with President Trump. They have maintained that states should run elections, not the federal government. You can do a search for those Republicans and the reasons for their willingness to express their opinions.

When I write these articles, I’m reminded that I should present both sides of an issue. This is President Trump’s side: “We have states that are so crooked, and they’re counting votes — we have states that I won that show I didn’t win. Now you’re going to see something in Georgia where they were able to get through a court order, the ballots. You’re going to see some interesting things.”

The 2020 voter files were seized by the Director of National Intelligence Tulsi Gabbard, according to Intelligencer and many other sources. This source also added that “Trump made the same argument in a March 2025 executive order in which he asserted the right to impose new voter ID requirements on the states — an authority federal courts contemptuously rejected.” Intelligencer followed this with, “The U.S. Constitution clearly assigns election administration to the states. A secondary right to regulate the time, place, and manner of elections for federal office is assigned to Congress. The president has no authority over elections at any level.”

Issue One analysis reports a deepening workforce crisis in half of all counties in 11 Western states that have lost their chief election official since the 2020 election. This was not considered to be normal turnover according to the authors of the report, but was largely due to stress, threats, and burnout.

Unfortunately, these workers are taking institutional knowledge that is likely to be difficult to replace.

When experienced officials leave under pressure, election administration raises questions, opening the door to justify more threats and more federal interventions for the midterms. There is an alarming possibility that immigration agents and possibly military assets, will be deployed at polling places to address possible noncitizen voting, thereby discouraging voting by anyone who has concerns about attention from these agents.

Looking ahead to the midterms, these possibilities should draw the attention and participation of State election officials, non-MAGA Republicans, voting-rights advocates, and the courts. They can be expected to fight back against all these threats coming from a variety of sources, such as the White House, the Department of Justice, and pro-Trump social media. Is there a role for organizations such as the American Association of University Women?

APRIL PROGRAM – Rosie the Riveter at Bell

Step back to 1943 & imagine yourself reporting for your first shift at Bell Aircraft-overalls on, rivet gun in hand.

During WWII, thousands of women took on roles once reserved for men, drilling, riveting, & inspecting aircraft that would take flight overseas. In this session, we'll explore their groundbreaking contributions through photos, stories & even a hands-on look at the tools they used so you can feel the weight of their work. Beyond the factory floor, we'll also consider what it meant for women to step into this world of heavy industry & the lasting legacy they left behind when peace returned.

We were very excited to see the almost full-page article with color graphics about our scholarships in the January 15 edition of Bee Newspapers. They did a great job and captured all the points we hoped they would. Kudos to Bob Kupczak and his staff.

That article got the attention of Penny Wolfgang, a retired Erie County Supreme Court Judge who is currently a radio interviewer and commentator, among other things. Recently Penny Wolfgang interviewed Mary Bashore, Pat Miceli and Melissa White about our organization, our book sale, and scholarship program for her weekly “On Target” radio series, which can be heard weekend mornings on five radio stations. Not to worry if you missed it – check out the podcast at:

https://shows.amperwavepodcasting.com/audacy/buffalo_wwkbam/on_target_with_penny_wolfgang

Thank you, Penny Wolfgang!

We had a paid ad in the January 22, 2026 educational edition of Bee Newspapers and a free ad in the Amherst Chamber of Commerce educational e-newsletter.

Pat Miceli, Mary Bashore and Andy Smith represented AAUW at a student engagement event at UB Center for the Arts. We didn’t get as much foot traffic as we expected – still, we interacted with students in engineering, business, accounting and other fields and were impressed with the caliber of the student population.

Jacquie Walker, our honorary book sale chair, wrote a nice piece and arranged for on-air publicity on WIVB (channel 4). Her husband, Mike Beato, met with UB students at The Newman Center and talked up our scholarships.

All these efforts have resulted in a substantial increase in scholarship applications, particularly Jacquie Walker and Catalyst for Change.

As we prepare to consider scholarship review committee recommendations, we are also preparing for the 70th Scholarship Book Sale. Everybody seems to know about it; still, we need to remind people of the dates and place. We will again have a colorful paid ad in Bee Newspapers, which reach about 134,000 people. We will again have bookmarks to distribute at libraries and elsewhere, postcards will be mailed, and updates posted on our website and Facebook.

You don’t need to be shy about telling everybody – we can all be very proud of the Buffalo Branch. My mother would say, it never hurts to ask, and if you really want to do something, find a way. For me, that advice still rings true.

Recently I helped with the process of folding, applying sealing stickers, applying address labels, adding postage and mailing our lovely Advocate Newsletter to several dozen members who have requested a hardcopy. This followed the process of compiling the updated mailing list, the printing of address stickers, sending the 12-page newsletter to the printer, picking up the finished newsletters, obtaining postage stamps and other supplies and generating gear for assembling. While it didn't take too long for 3 of us to finish the job, it took 5 people probably a total of 5 hours to accomplish all this, plus the gas and driving, and I figure it cost our branch roughly $100.

We know there are some people who rely only on the hardcopy, and of course we will continue to provide it for anyone who needs it. But if you are able to view the Advocate by email or accessing it via our website, we ask that you please consider doing so. The electronic version is very colorful and attractive, you will get it much sooner, and you will save us all time and money. Keep in mind, you don't even need to have a hardcopy or print the Advocate to sign up for programs – you can do that electronically by clicking on the link in the Advocate or going to the website under Programs and Meetings. It saves you postage and time.

If you would like to discontinue receiving hardcopy, please let us know via the form added to the website. And thanks for reading the Advocate!
